A DUPLICATE GAME.

That baseball bulletin is a public benefac tor, Yesterday it gave from two to three thousand people who were unable to get to the Polo Grounds the pleasure of practically witnessing the great game of baseball played by New York against St. Louis as the first of the championship series.

It was amusing to see the eagerness with which the crowd watched the pins as they were adroitly moved on the novel "diamond" board, and to hear the expert comments made as point after point in the game was recorded on the mimic field. No more attractive novelty has ever been offered to the people of New York than THE WORLD's simultaneous playing on Park Row of the game in progress at the Bolo Grounds.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES.

The people are disposed to clamor agains the bakers for raising the price of bread. But the bakers are not to blame. The fault lies with the grain gamblers who use their large capital to "corner" the wheat market. This forces up the price of flour, and it is unreasonable to suppose that the baker can afford to bear the loss. His business only yields him a fair profit, and to this he is entitled.

There is plenty of wheat in the country. The farmers get no better price for it now than they did before "Old HUTCH" com menced to "pinch" the market. As far as the supply goes bread ought to be cheaper than it is. But conspiracies of capital to " corner " the market send up the price of flour unnaturally, and then the poor man has to pay dearer for his bread or to get less for his money.

The blame lies with those who, having the power to make the laws, fail to make the formation of Trusts or gambling in future prices of food products a criminal offense.

The STREET MURDER.

FLACCOMIO, in front of the Cooper Union last Monday. In the one case half a dozen crimes, which must have taken some time to commit, have been perpetrated in the same neighborhood in London, evidently by the same hand and the police have been powerless to prevent them or to discover the criminal. In the other, a man is struck down suddenly in the streets while no one is near, and the assassin walks away and escapes.

The New York crime could be successfully committed in any city in the world and under the most perfect police system ever devised. The assassin watches his opportunity and strikes his blow when no one is near. No vigilance could guard against such a murder, and no censure attaches to the police. It is, however, the duty of the force to discover the murderer, and this we have no doubt our efficient detectives will do.

Mayor Hewirr has written a letter of acceptance in which he lauds his own administration and pitches into Tammany as a very wicked organization. But Mayor HEWITT has accepted office every time at Tammany's hands and would have been shouting for Tammany and regularity now as he was a year ago if Tammany had again nominated him for Mayor.
